How to fold your booklet, and a Victorian child's day

15 POINTS

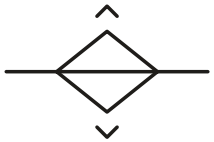

1. Fold in half

Fold the sheet in half the long way, then open it. Fold it in half the short way, then in half again, so you have 8 little boxes.

2. Cut the slit

Fold in half the short way. Cut along the solid line from the folded edge to the middle: only across the two middle boxes.

3. Push it together

Open the sheet, fold it the long way, hold both ends and push them towards the middle. The slit opens into a diamond.

4. Fold the pages round

Fold the pages round so the cover is on the front. Press the folds flat. Your eight-page booklet is ready.

A poorer child's day

5 to 6 am	Wake in a shared bed. Wash in cold water from a jug.
6 to 8 am	Chores: fetch water from the street pump, light the fire, black-lead the range, polish the boots. Breakfast of porridge or bread.
8.45 am	Walk to school. The bell rings at 9.
9 am	Register and prayers. Then the three Rs: reading, writing on slates, reckoning. Times tables chanted out loud.
12 noon	Dinner, often a walk home and back: bread, cheese, maybe a bit of stew.
2 pm	Afternoon school: woodwork or gardening for boys, cooking and sewing for girls.
5 pm	Home. More chores, then tea. Play in the street: a hoop and stick, a spinning top, a peg doll.
8 pm	Bed by candle or oil lamp, several children to a bed. No electricity, no TV.

A richer child's day

7 am	Woken by the nursemaid in the nursery at the top of the house. Washed and dressed by a servant.
8 am	Breakfast in the nursery: porridge, eggs, bread and butter.
9 am	Lessons at home in the schoolroom with a governess: reading, writing, sums, French, piano, drawing.
12 noon	A walk in the park with Nanny, or a ride in the carriage.
2 pm	More lessons, then play: a rocking horse, a dolls' house, tin soldiers, a magic lantern.
5 pm	Nursery tea, then dressed up to see Mother and Father for an hour in the drawing room.
7 pm	Bath by the fire, prayers and bed, with gas lamps in the hall and a candle on the stairs.
